WORLD REFUGEE DAY

20 June 2019 World Refugee Day

Today is the day of increasing contact and sharing, reinforcing the solidarity, enhancing dialogue and common goals.

"Migration is always traumatic, but if it is managed well, it contributes to its region and geography. One of the most important examples of this is the geography of Anatolia. Civilizations and development are the result of migration in Anatolia."

WHAT WE DO

SYRIANS IN GAZIANTEP

Migration is not the problem, it is an opportunity for enrichment, maturation, improvement and mutual transformation. GAUN Institute for Migration set its priorities as taking up every dimension of social cohesion and integration in detail, improving lives of locals and refugees living in Gaziantep, and spreading of the effect to cities where refugees densely populated.

Limitation of social relations is an obstacle to social cohesion. Eliminating the prejudices that migrant and host communities hold towards each other is possible by increasing the number and the quality of scientific researches, creating new threshold spaces and points of contact; in other words by knowing each other. Then, we can talk about mutual and persistent social acceptance.

SYRIANS IN GAZIANTEP: SUCCESS STORIES

Bringing out the cultural, artistic and economic contribution of new residents of Turkey to the forefront is the key to the sustainability of social cohesion. We believe refugees living under overwhelming economic conditions transforming and improving the city's culture and art scene by overcoming the everyday life struggles. As evidence of it, we started "Syrians in Gaziantep: Success Stories" with the aim of conveying the stories of Syrians having successfully integrated into cultural and social life successfully. Soon, with a documentary and a book, we will make these stories heard to provide evidence that two communities can affect each other in a positive way.
